Val,
 This was a good year, at least we got to be friends.
 I didn't learn much
 English or History 'cause I had so much fun.
 I think I'll be able to wait for Friday to come once summer gets here!
 Maybe I'll come over and see ya' sometime this summer. You'd better be together next year because we really had a blast this year.
 I was lucky, maybe we got Mr. Saunders for Government! Yey.
 Gotta go now.
 Good luck,
 Y. Miller

*Valerie-I've decided to write here. I don't know why. I think you are a great gal and you're a great help to "MOM". I'll be seeing you next year in '66 and I will also be Student Director... will you vote for me?
 Thanks for everything
 love,
 Stephanie*

Class of '70 Worked to Make the Last Year at Oakton the Best.

Organizations

The Art Guild provides an opportunity for interested students to experience art activities outside of the regular school program. This year members were able to work on a mural, a mosaic, a silk-screen project, and Christmas decorations. The hand made silk-screened calendars and Christmas decorations were sold to the student body during the winter months. The final project was a sculpture to be placed in the art courtyard.

Monitors

The Student Administrative Assistants were created to help monitor the halls, cafeteria, and bathrooms. This year, over forty students have volunteered their time to support their school. With the continuation of this program, it will be possible for the students of Oakton High School to monitor themselves, without the help of the teachers.

The purpose of the Varsity Club is to promote school spirit by providing able leadership from all its members. We encourage student participation in the athletic programs. And most important we give full support to the athletic department. Throughout the year we have fund raising activities to aid the athletics of the school.

Oaktonettes

Oaktonettes is a girls club formed to serve the community, school, and also the members of the club. More than just a service club, it could be called a social group, because they are able, by working and having fun together, to make very close and lasting friendships. Their plans for the year included working for FOCUS and the old folks homes in the area, and sponsoring a Spirit Week for Oakton.

The 1969-1970 Oakton Club served the school this year in many ways. Not only did the boys co-sponsor the Sadie Hawkins Dance and Safety Week, but they ushered many of the musical events and other happenings at Oakton. They operate the elevator every day for the handicapped and give their service whenever it is needed.

The purpose of the Pep Club is to promote spirit throughout the student body. They sold bumper stickers at the beginning of the year and are planning to have a dance later on to which everyone will come dressed as different comic strip characters. They support the various athletic activities by putting up posters, announcing the games, and going to the games themselves. We also assist the Booster Club by selling refreshments at basketball games. We organized buying the various team flags displaced in the gym.

Majorettes

The primary purpose of the Majorettes is to promote school spirit by performing at football and basketball games, concerts, and other school functions. The majorettes highlighted their performances with such special features as: fire and flag batons, top hats and canes, and a dance-twirl routine to "Music to Watch Girls By." The majorettes are an active part of the band and accompany the band on such projects as the Exchange Concert.

Much controversial opinion was shot toward the newspaper during the past year. It turned out to be a stimulating and well-rounded paper for the student body. Being a free paper it was available to all the students. The staff had time to develop a more enjoyable publication.

Oakton's literary magazine was a combination of the student body's creative ability in a unified and unique book. The staff worked hard to make this year's Opus representative of the best talent, both literary and artistic, in O.H.S. They also learned how a magazine was compiled and gained valuable experience for the future as tomorrow's publishers and copy editors.

Concentrating on a theme of individuality the Paragon staff compiled a record of the activities and students of Oakton. Missing every deadline, the staff developed the theme throughout the book. Mr. Wilkins, by cooperating with a zany staff, made it once more through the year as sponsor of the Paragon.

Symphonic Band

The purpose of the Symphonic Band is to provide an instrumental group of the highest calibre, performing music of all periods. This band acts as the main representative of the school at contests and provides music for the football games.

Listening fourth period to the symphonic band, you might call it hopeless. Through the direction of Mr. Reid the band turned out to be of highest calibre performing music of all periods.

Half-times were filled with complicated performances, pep rallies spurred on by their music, and assemblies to stir Oakton spirit.

Long tedious practices proved worthwhile for the Christmas Concert, Jazz Festival and the long awaited Exchange Concert.

Concert Band

The Concert Band is composed of those students who are interested in playing a musical instrument. Under the direction of Mr. Reid, the young musicians are encouraged to improve their musical ability. By playing in many concerts throughout the school year, the band members improve their skills, thus advancing to a higher level.

The Concert Choir, consisting of well-chosen juniors and seniors with outstanding voices, was led by Mrs. Blake and the student director, Steve Handwerk. Considered the major performing choir at Oakton, the group of young vocalists entertained at the Christmas and Spring Concerts, singing programs with the music from all periods of time. Besides these two major singing events of the year, the choir also performed at local schools, and brought to them some of the best talent at Oakton. The successful "Guys and Dolls" musical was another of the concert choir's projects.

Activities

Homecoming

The Student body of Oakton honored the Class of 1969 by inviting them back to their Alma Mater for the Homecoming game and dance. Last minute details were added to the floats as the class of '69 took their place in the stands for Homecoming. Although not an impressive game there was an air of friendliness and happiness as the former Seniors were reunited. Judging was deliberated during half-time and the Sophomores were the winning class. Their class displayed the spirit of Oakton.

Kathi Turner was elected queen from three Senior Princesses. Serving on the court were, Seniors, Patti Binninger, Cheryl Wuttke, Juniors, Chris McKechnie, Meg Crowlie, Sophomore Joanie Blackburn, and Freshman Lori Blanchette.

Ending a successful Homecoming the Foggy Bottoms entertained during the dance. The Class of '69 then became history, as the honored guest at Oakton's first Homecoming.

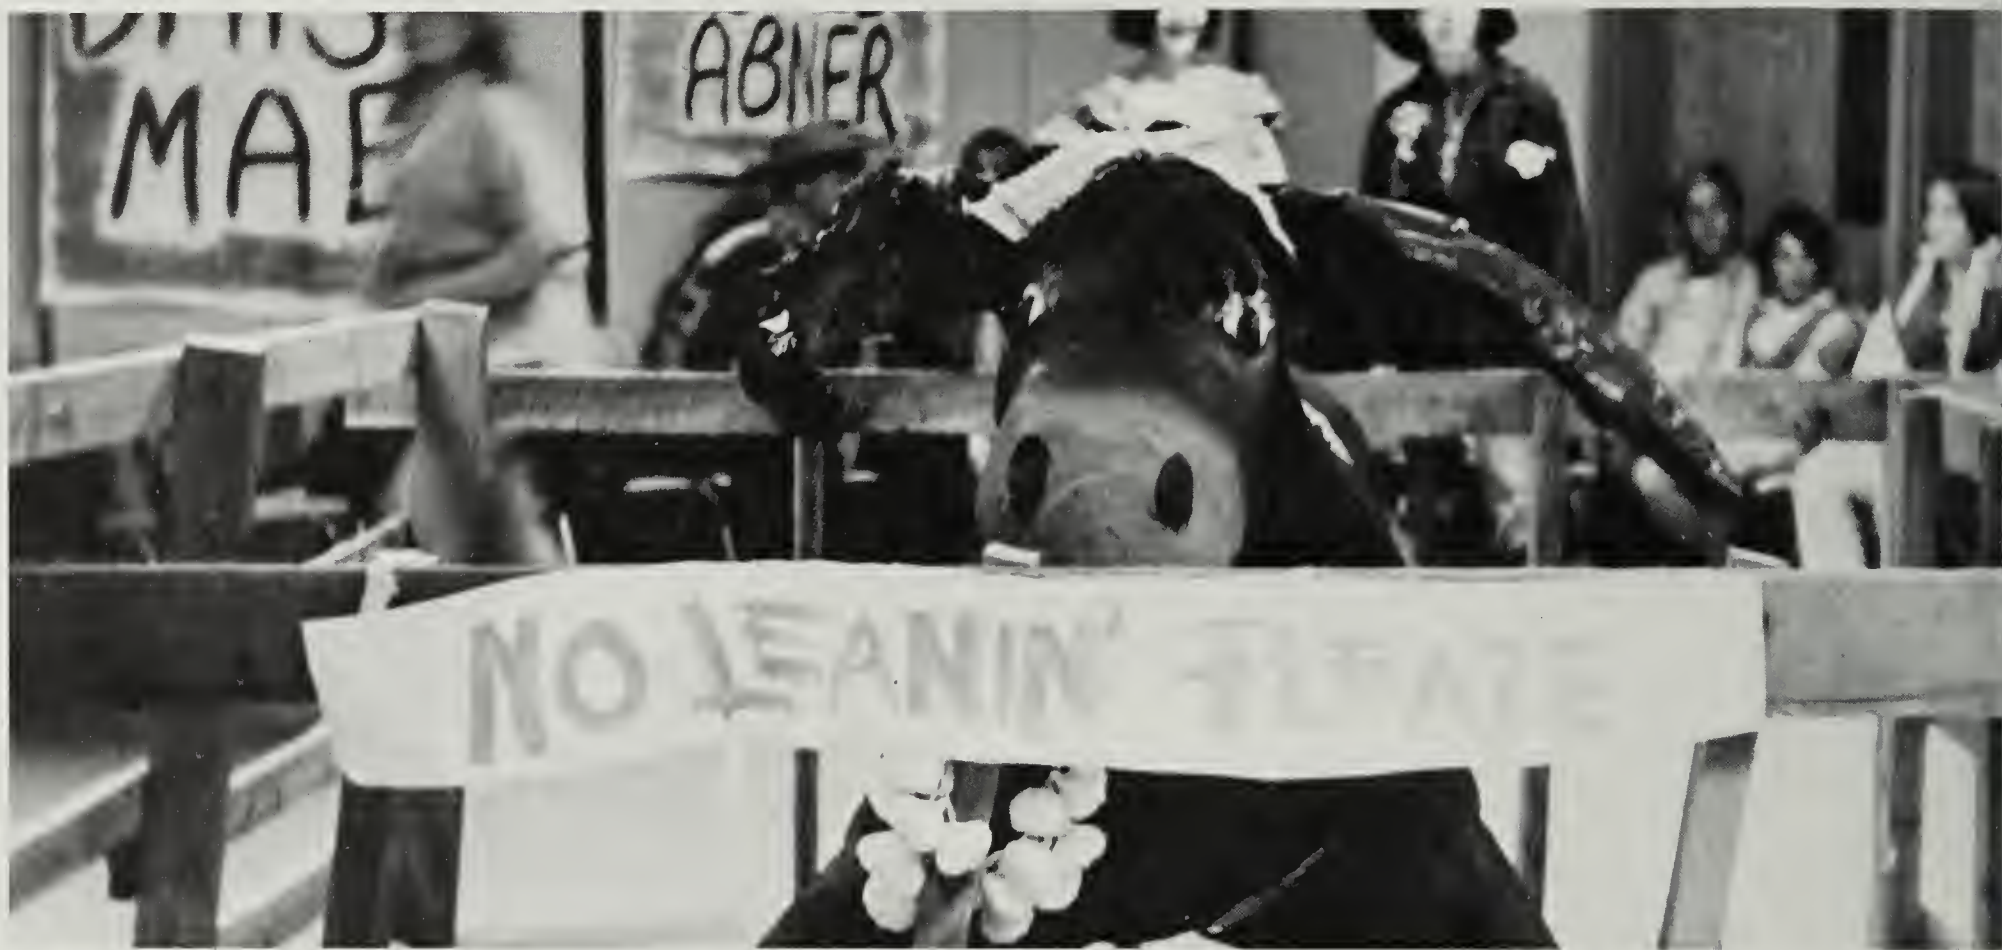

Miss Oakton

Miss Oakton does not only represent beauty, she also must be a girl of poise. Her duties were to be present at main events, introduce new people to the school, and also promote spirit. Jamie MacKercher, a sophomore filled these qualifications as the first Miss Oakton. The event of picking Miss Oakton is hoped to become a tradition.

Sadie Hawkins

The L'I Abner and Daisy Maes, chaperoned by Mammy and Pappy Yokums, whooped it up in Nov. at Oaktons annual Sadie Hawkins dance.

As the night began, bobbing for apples and pie eating contests were just part of the fun. Costumes were judged on originality and just plain cuteness. For the girls, even'n was highlighted by getting hitched by Marr'in Sam.

Karate Assembly

One of Oakton's most successful assemblies was the demonstration by Mr. Jhoon Rhee of the Jhoon Rhee Institute of Tack-wor-do and his students. Held in the gym the classes were captivated as the art of self-defense was put in action.

The girls showed how to protect themselves when attacked and the men proved their skill with dangerous weapons. The finale was highlighted by each participant breaking boards with feet and hands from many difficult heights.

National Honor Society

The National Honor Society had its third annual induction of new members. The assembly was highlighted by speeches on scholarship, leadership and service. Parents and guests were invited to attend. Lighting of candles and the actual induction ended the assembly.

In a play adapted from a story by Shirley Jackson, another view of death was observed. Tessie Hutchison was the lucky one to win this game that they played once a year. The prize? a stoning. This play, along with two others, was performed for two evenings in Oakton's auditorium. Death was the theme of these magnificent plays.

THE SANDBOX

The Young Man Donnie Michael
 Mommie Randie Donnelly
 Daddy Charlie Ewing
 Grandma Lucia Donahue
 The Musician Bill Lee

"The Sandbox," directed by Donald S. Cox, was presented to the school in an assemble and to the public in an arrangement with two other short plays on death. Although the play is at first hard to comprehend, it becomes more understandable as it moves along. Edward Albee originally wrote the play in memory of his grandmother.

SAVE ME A PLACE AT FOREST LAWN

Clara Liz Kemp
 Gertrude Pam Schlie

Written by Lorees Yerby, "Save Me a Place at Forest Lawn" was presented along with "The Lottery" and "The Sandbox" in the auditorium. It takes place in a cafeteria and involves two old women comically talking about their death. Liz and Pam did a fine job in making this one of Oakton's funniest plays.

Welfare Game

Oakton stirred student involvement with a unique basketball game between the seniors and underclassmen. Alan Weimer successfully organized the game to make almost $1400 for local welfare. The Bull Treds and the Horse Plops frantically fought for points to thrill the audience. In spite of the enthusiastic efforts of the senior cheerleaders, the underclassmen were victorious.

Mr. Alan Weimer

Fairfax, Virginia 22030

Dear Alan:

The check for $526.68, representing FOCUS' "share" of the benefit basketball game proceeds, arrived at a most opportune time. Our Treasury was almost depleted and the needs presented to us just before Christmas were at a peak for the year.

This is the time of year when human emergencies always mount, especially for our poor friends. Those who depend on good weather for regular work and paychecks run out of money, food, and fuel, and are often in jeopardy of losing the roof over their heads. Contributions such as yours enabled FOCUS to say "yes" to many more cries for help than would otherwise have been possible.

Your compassion for the poor among us is surely a perfect example of the spirit of Christmas. Self-giving is what Christmas is all about and, moreover, is the continuing test of responsible citizenship. Your constructive and imaginative action reflects a mature understanding and is a witness to the entire community. Others have been impressed by your example, and hopefully will try to emulate it, in one way or another, as you had envisioned.

It should be a source of pride to you, as director of student activities at Oakton High School, and to the student body that your contribution is the largest sum ever received by FOCUS during the 2 years of its existence. On behalf of the more than 100 poor families now receiving help from FOCUS and who will benefit from your generosity, I extend our most heartfelt thanks.

Sincerely,
Gene T. Kinney

Faculty Follies

Oakton's teachers displayed their talents and entertained their students in the Faculty Follies. Various skits, songs, and dances expressed the theme of what Oakton will look like in twenty years. The main purpose of the teachers was to present a show greater than last years. In the show, the theme was based around Shakespeares "MacBeth" also with an added Laugh-In scene. The Faculty Follies were very successful in that they raised funds enough to sponsor an A.F.S. student overseas.

Christmas Dance

The Senior class sponsored Silver Bells, Oakton's annual Christmas Dance. The holiday mood was set by the Magic Reign, one of the areas top recording bands. Among the five girls nominated for queen; Kathi Turner, Kerry McInnis, Karin Houhoulis, Cheryl Newman, and Tony Pachuchua; Cheryl Newman was crowned queen. She was attended by sophomore Jamie MacKierchner, freshman Pam Collins and juniors Lisa Hunmel and Meg Crowlie. With the student body's tremendous support, the dance turned out to be one of Oakton's best.

Student Appreciation Week

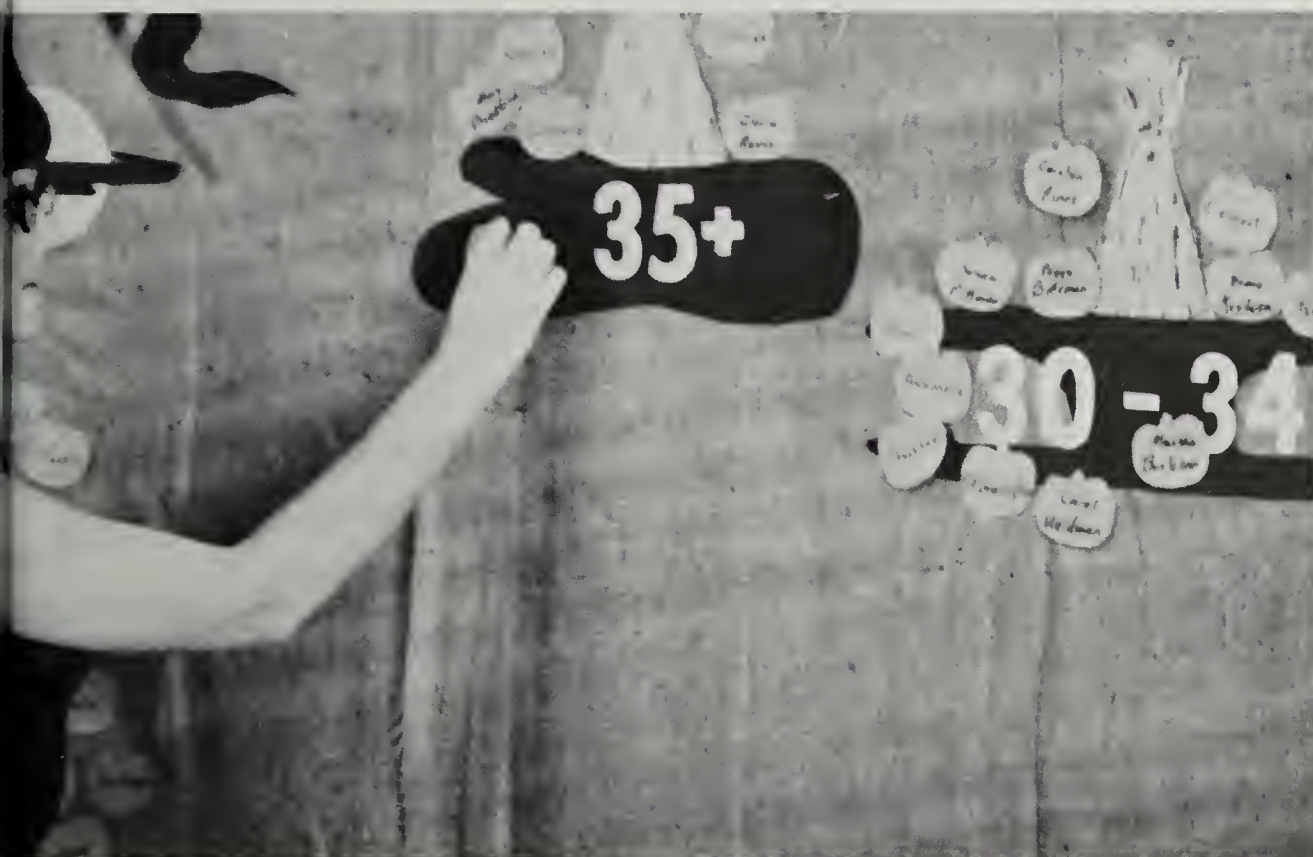

"A week dedicated to us?"

That was the general reaction of Oakton students when the faculty surprised them with Student Appreciation Week. The weeks' events included a "Teaching Day" for students, an assembly, coke breaks for all the classes, a "No Homework" night before the big Marshall game, and hundreds of free movie passes. A special issue of the school paper carried the names of all the students in the school, and included this message: "The numerous special activities were organized and the prizes selected for the purpose of expressing our gratitude, as your faculty, for the great majority of students who are fine people making valuable contributions to our school and our community."

Teacher's Appreciation

Keyettes and the FTA sponsored Teacher Appreciation Week in April. The faculty found their lounges decorated and snacks provided every day of their special week. Students were teachers' aides, assisting in grading papers or other small jobs requested by their assigned teachers. This is the third year the two service clubs have sponsored Teachers Appreciation Week, and each year it has been a success.

Sweetheart Dance

The Sweetheart Dance, sponsored by the senior class, was held on Valentine's Day this year. It was the first dance at Oakton to have the court picked by computer. Mary McKeone was voted Queen with Sandy Blevins and Pat Chamberlan as senior attendants. Lynn Spaulding and Pat Pederson were the selected attendants from the junior class, followed by Sarah Berga and Wanda Botts from the Sophomore and Freshman classes. Due to the superb organization of the dance by chairman, Julie Miller, the dance was a big success.

Oakton's first musical, Guys and Dolls, was presented to Oakton February 20 and 21. The musical was directed by Mr. Cox with Mrs. Blake in charge of the choral directing and Mr. Reed directing the band. The action of the play took place in New York around a hangout of gamblers. Starring Bruce Shafferman as Sky Masterson, Suzy Smith as Miss Adelaide, Steve Handwerk as Nathan Detroit, and Mariane Bush as Sarah Brown, the underlying theme of the play was love. Highlighted by many dances and songs, the musical was classified as a great success.

Val, for all your help,

Junior Rings

In October of this year the Juniors of Oakton High School ordered their class rings. These students anxiously awaited their arrival in April. Class rings serve as a kind of initiation in Oakton. They are the last step to becoming a Senior. The rings were received in a breakfast given by the Senior Class.

Senior Playday and Picnic

For eleven years Seniors have struggled through school. The first half of the final year is spent studiously but after college acceptances have been received, Senior Slump sets in. One social activity is practiced at Oakton to revive spirit in the Seniors during this period. This is Senior Play Day which is topped off into a picnic.

Sports

Team tightens up for tough schedule

While others were enjoying their vacation, fifty boys shortened their summer by going out for varsity football. Some gave up quickly and some needed encouragement to stay through the long hard practices. The coaches watched scrimmages closely as they picked the final team. With last cuts drawing near the practices were harder, plays tougher and hopefulness higher. The season had begun.

Anxiety crept into the team and school. It seemed those myriads of memorized plays were not working to the ability they had hoped for. Unforeseen circumstances developed which handicapped the team and spirit of Oakton as we met defeat after defeat. But it could not be on record what the boys did have. It was a season filled with experience, not only in football but within the team. They never lost faith, each had an undaunting spirit working through the last game, to its last seconds, to the final whistle, completing a rough season.

These boys developed skill in plays and strategy that will enable them to produce a winning varsity team next year.

Frosh Powerhouse of Season.

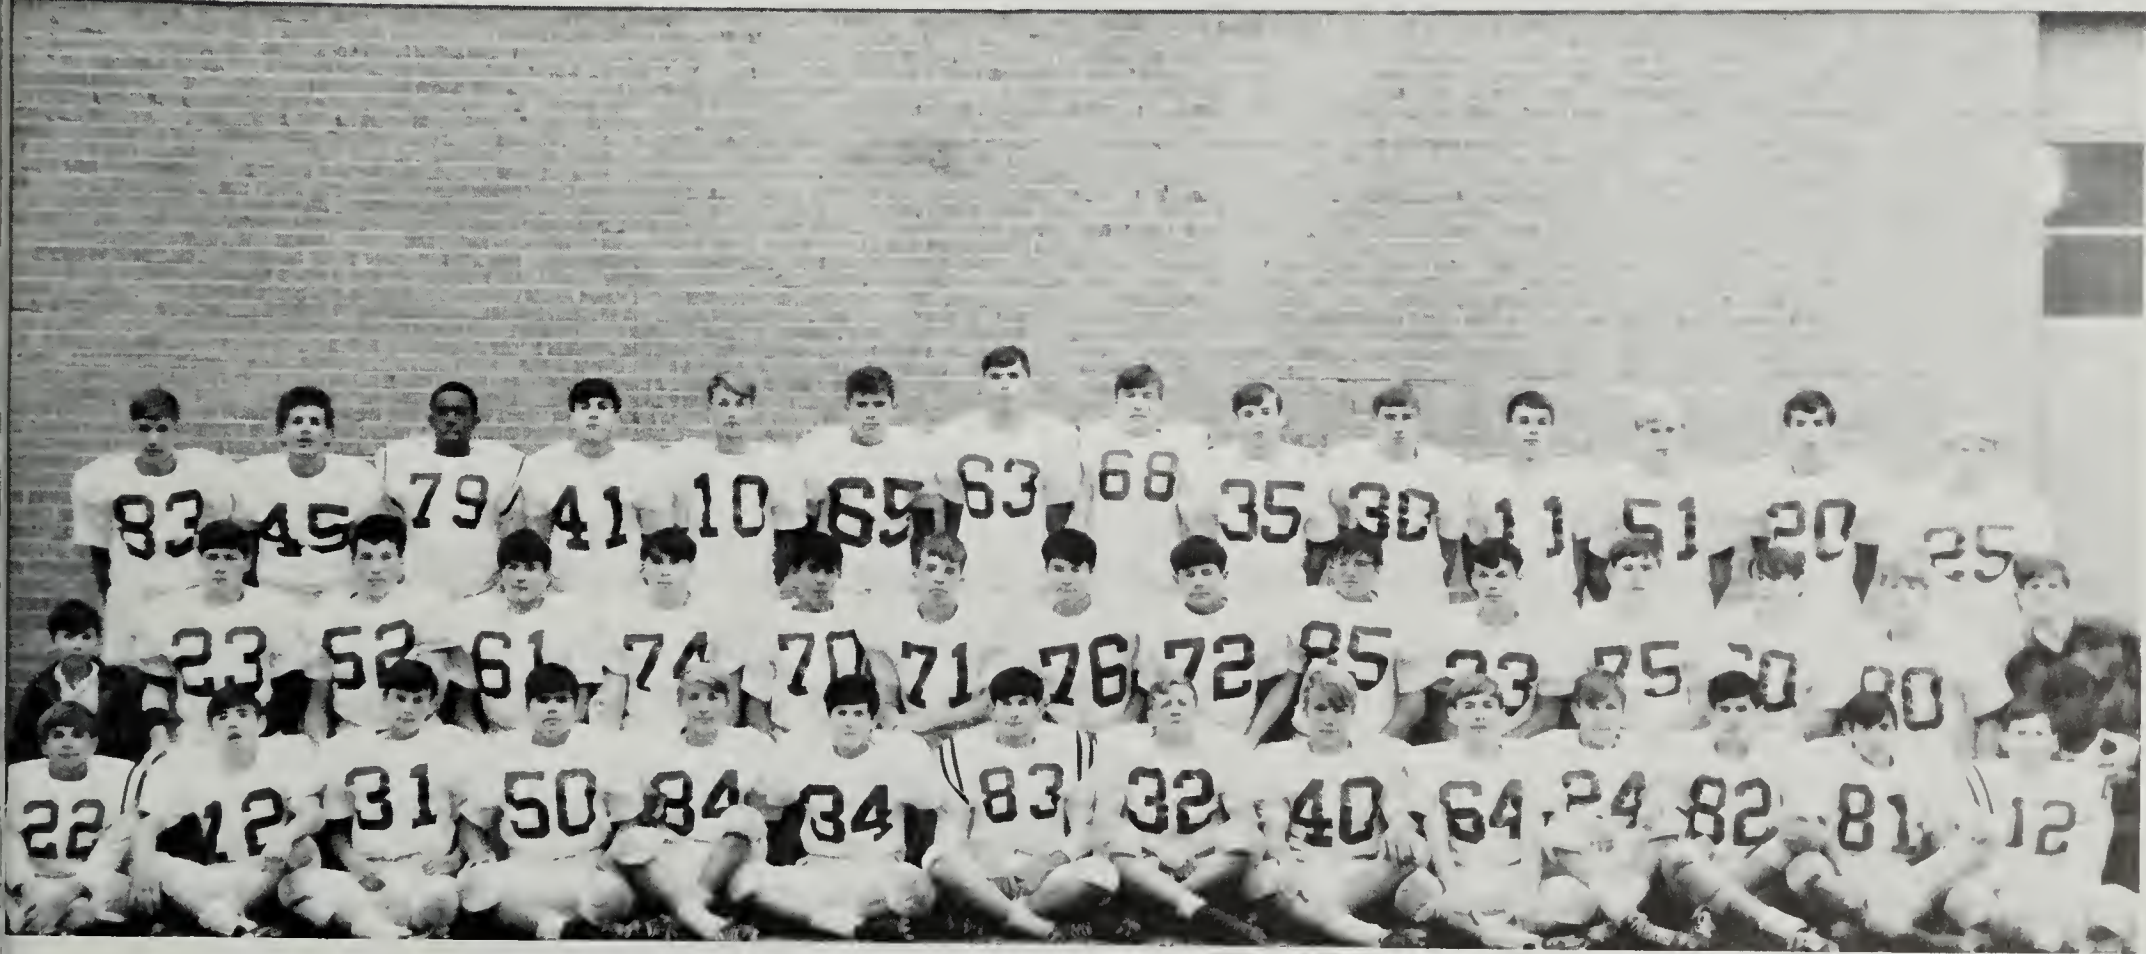

A high school team. A chance to prove themselves athletes. A long road to travel for a reputation. A reputation of a highly praised team. Boys developing into a team of power.

Toughening muscles, desperately learning a head full of plays, and weary bodies fulfilled weeks of practice. Expanding the skills the boys matured into one. By the first game they were a team; a unit of players gathered to conquer.

Maybe the first victory was luck and spirit combined, but as the year progressed students took notice of this little team. Triumph after triumph mounted and the Frosh team's aim was clearly seen. They wanted to be the first undefeated team at Oakton. And they did it.

Sporting an impressive year, Varsity Cross Country proved to Oakton that this was not a dull sport. Hardly a team to go unrecognized they proved their ability by becoming number one in district. With new glory practicing did not slack off as they perfected themselves for regional competition. Spirit followed as many students witnessed these boys earn the title, Northern Virginia Regional Champions. Carrying a new name, the final meet approached. Again it was a great team in action as Oakton crossed the finish line fourth in state.

A long road to victory

J.V. runs to glory!

J.V. Cross Country was sparked with old and new talent this year. Following in the varsity's team footsteps, they finished the season with a 3-1 record. Coach Welkers ability to develop the boys running potential will enable the J.V. team to successfully take the place of leaving seniors on the varsity team.

During many after school practices, the Girl's Varsity Hockey Team endeavored to improve their game. A continuously running sport, the girls welcomed a few breaks watching teammates play. The field appeared to be mass confusion, but it was an area of skill and coordination. Although they had a losing season, the girls proved to be a tough opponent.

Victory!

No longer underdogs

Being the dark horse in the Great Falls District, the team had to prove to their competitors and student body they were a team to be reckoned with. Attendance sporadically picked up as the team posted a winning season.

Gaining two 6'5"ers improved the teams rebounds and field goal attempts. Scoring soared and many players accumulated double figure points in many games.

Marshall, Oakton's constant rival, beat them in the early part of the season putting the title in a three-way tie. However, Oakton came back to roll past Marshall and claimed undisputed first place.

Loss at Regionals,

There was no more doubt about the Cougars. These boys had brought attention and fame to Oakton as the night came for Regionals.

It was the greatest game Oakton had ever played. Our opponents, G. W., had the advantage of height but with Oakton's skill it was overlooked. A tremendous but heart-breaking game as the final buzzer sounded 51-53. The season ended with Oakton in the top four of the area.

As stands filled for the Varsity game, spectators usually caught the end of the J.V. game in progress. Using fundamentals previous learned from their Freshman year each aided one another in old and new plays. Free throws, rebounds, and jump balls were all skillfully carried out under the supervision of Coach Shuman. Their ability to play together limited the opposition to an average of 30 points a game.

One of the primary purposes of the Freshman team was introducing the boys to teamwork and fundamentals of play for the future varsity team. They learned well as each member perfected themselves during difficult drills for upcoming games. Even though it was a Frosh team, spirit, with enthusiasm followed the boys onto the court during the season.

The winners

With a new season approaching Oakton's Grapplers began practice early in the year. There were questions of their potential after losing last year's seniors but they earned a name for themselves. Three of Oakton's best wrestlers went to state, with Sam Hubbard placing third in his weight class. The many returning wrestlers should provide Oakton with an even better team next year.

Indoor track new to Oakton

A new sport was added to Oakton this year; indoor track. Dodging people as they ran through the halls it was more like an obstacle course than a track field. Running mostly in invitational meets they never gave up. With indoor track becoming more popular, a better team should develop next year.

Friedman goes to State

The Oakton High School Gymnastics Team competed in two gymnastic meets this year in the events of: vaulting, uneven bars, floor exercise, balance beam, and tumbling. At the Washington-Lee High School Invitational Gymnastics Meet, Donna Ralph won a third place medal in vaulting and Diane Friedman won first place in tumbling. At the Northern Regional Gymnastics Competition, Leslie Nelson took second in compulsory tumbling and Diane Friedman won another first place in general tumbling, which qualified her to compete in the State Gymnastics Meet.
